

HoNEST Workshop: Barcelona, Spain May 2018
Atoms for Peace and Europe:
Nuclear Energy Networks in Europe and around the Globe

Preliminary Programme 2/2/2018

Meeting Full day May 28, 2018

Meeting half day May 29, 2018

Participants

Matthew Adamson, McDaniel College (Budapest campus)
"Hot Commodities: The Status of Uranium and Atoms for Peace"

Barbara Curli, University of Turin
"Atoms for industry. The nuclear activities of Fiat, 1956-1967"

Jacob Hamblin, Oregon State University
"‘Ruthless, Power-directed, Ambitious’: How the Americans Tried to Manage Atomic Aspirations in Asia in the Fifties"

Néstor Herran, Sorbonne University
"The industry of radioisotopes before and after Atoms for Peace: a European perspective"

Eliza Gheorghe, Yale University
"Making Up for Lost Time: The Global Competition for Markets and the Launch of Atoms for Peace"

Michaela Kůželová, Charles University
"Towards the atomic age together with the Soviet Union: Popularization of nuclear energy in Czechoslovakia in the 1950s"

Gloria Sans Lafuente, Universidad Pública de Navarra
"A road for heavy water. An entrepreneurial option inside the Spanish nuclear programme, 1955-1965"

Karl-Erik Michelsen, University of Lappeenranta
"Atoms for Peace and the breaking of the post-war political isolation" – Transnational Initiative and the beginning of nuclear age in Finland 1953-1955"

Gabor Pallo, Budapest University of Technology and Economics
"Construction of nuclear culture: Looking at the first Geneva conference from Hungary"

Tran Thai Vinh, Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam
"Atoms for What? Cold War Atoms for Peace and the quest for nation building in post-colonial states in Asia: South Korea and South Vietnam case studies".

Paul Josephson, Colby College, Tomsk State University, MIFI
Facilitator and Organizer